Dear Sir

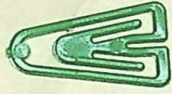

Your letter of recent date to Miss Mabel Cratty has been referred to me for answer. We are very much interested in your folk song book. As you will see from the enclosed folders we also publish folk song books. If you care to send us a review copy of your book we would be glad to review it in the columns of our magazine, The Womans Press, a copy of which I am sending to you under separate cover. If you care to have us do so we can, of course, return the book to you after it has been reviewed.

Sincerely yours

Dear Madam:

Certainly! I am glad to send you a review copy of my "Spanish Songs of Old California, and of course you can keep it after reviewing.

I will appreciate the courtesy if you will send me copy of your review.

Though privately printed, "without strings" on the big music publishers, this First Book is already in its Fifth Thousand in eleven months. The songs are being sung from California to Maine, by thousands of individuals, and by a large number of glee clubs, community choruses, etc. They have the vitality and appeal of the true Folk Song, and are finding a general response in the hearts of many country men.

Yours very truly,
